CITY ITEMS.

Public Grounds .- Those intrusted with the improvement of the public grounds here have omitted to prosecute the improvement of the grounds surrounding the Smithsonian Institute, this season. This has produced great disappointment on the part of our Island fellow-citizens, who anticipated that the policy of last year in connection with the Government's property in that section of Washington, would be vigorously pushed. All that has been effected during the whole of the present season in the Institute grounds is a single cutting of the grass sward. We regret to have to write not a single tree of the collection has even been trimmed

Word for the Poor .- Those to whose benevolence the poor of Washington and Georgetown are usually indebted for the wood gratuitously furnished throughout the District, should remember that we are now in the middle of the season when wood is always cheapest. One hundred dollars, judiciously expended at this time in wood for the poor, will certainly provide twice the quantity to be obtained for it six months hence. A word to the wise should be sufficient.

Valuable Deposit .- On Tuesday evening last, a lady residing on 5th street, walked into the garden and had the good fortune to find two paper boxes, which, upon examination, were found to contain several very splendid shawls of a rare description. They were placed in the hands of the Chief of Police, who, with his men have used every effort to find out who placed them there, but so far without success. The shawls were identified by Mr. Causten as the property of his wife. The probable value of the shawls is about three hundred dollars. One of them was a present from a near and dear relative, and its value to the family could not be calculated in dollars and cents.

Block uling the Streets .- Many complaint have been made of the practice of builders using more of the streets than the law allows. course of erection, to use one-third of the street in front of the building. But this is not considered room enough by many, and we consequently see heaps of brick, sand, lumber. &c , extending even to the middle of the streets These heaps are dangerous to perhave to drive through our streets in the night time. Country people coming to market might ruin their horses, and run great risk of losing their own lives.

city begins to show an improved appearance. and a little attention to the interests of the First Ward by the corporate authorities, will encourage property owners there to improve greatly. The work upon the avenue is being completed as far as 20th street. Gaslights are being introduced into most of the principal stores and residences, and light and life are more apparent than heretofore. In the western section reside many of our most wealthy citizens; occupying large and splendid houses, and the Ward is known as the "Court End " A littie expense would make the "Court End" the most beautiful part of the Metropolis

Burglars.-During the past week attempts have been made by burglars to enter several houses in the Fourth Ward. In some cases the alarm was given before they could effect anything more than an escape.

Captain Montgomery's residence was entered during his absence from the city, and his furniture and clothing scattered over the floor. A pair of epaulets, valued at about $60, yers found lying upon the floor. The burglars were no doubt looking for silverware, but were disappointed, the captain having secured all his silver-ware before leaving | principal Corresponding and Superintendant

It has been stora in us that the per-$00 whose name so frequently appears in the Police report as James Charles, has reversed his name. We certainly never knew of more than one of the name in this city, and that one, We are sure, never was accused of assault and battery Where this name appears in the reports read " Charles James."

To be Tested - By law persons are not allowed to build a frame house nearer than twenty-four feet of a brick one, in this city. Yesterday, Mr. Z. P. King was arrested for violating this ordinance, and he has ruled the two clerks resigned and eight dismissed. case for trial. We presume it will be an interesting trial to persons wishing to build.

Spirit of the Morning Press.

The Republic details the preparations for the reception of the President and suite at Baltimore and Philadelphia, and discusses electoral corruption in England. The editor also criticises, with severity, Schoolcraft's work on the history, prospects, and condition of the Indian tribes, joining Mr. Bowen, the editor of the North American Review in denouncing it as worthless, and Congress for spending public money in large sums upon it.

The Intelligencer publishes an extract from Colonel Benton's forthcoming "Thirty Years in the United States Senate," in which the veteran gossips in a very interesting way over the never-to-be-forgotten duel between Henry Clay and John Randolph. It will be re-copied and eagerly read every where. However, we have little faith in cotemporaneous history; more especially when written by a gentleman who claims to have performed, on the whole, the most important part in the scenes he describes; a part, too, in which he deals death blows to all who gives him offence. Though we are not inclined to take the Colonel's deductions for more than their real value, and are only disposed to receive his facts cum grano salis, we are certainly prepared to say that he will make his work more interesting than any other melange of gossip for and against men who have figured during the last half century in our public amairs.

The Intelligencer also publishes in full the circular note of the Russian cabinet addressed to all the powers of Europe in explanation and justification of their present course towards Turkey. The venerable and judicious editor intimates that he coincides with the London Times in the opinion that this protocol is ill judged, being likely to serve only to com-The law allows a person who has a house in plicate the question, if not to almost ensure the destruction of the peace of Europe. > BALTIMORE CORRESPONDENCE. Correspondence of the Evening Star.

> > BALTIMORE, July 8-10, P. M.

Your readers, and the community generally, will regret to hear of the death of our townsman, John Glenn, Esq., Judge of the United States District Court of Maryland. He died at his country residence, a few miles from Baltimore, this afternoon, in the 58th year of his age. He had been suffering for several months from gout of the stomach, which finally terminated his earthly career. Mr. Glenn received his appointment over a year ago, from Mr. Fillmore, to fill the vacancy caused by Judge Heath's death. His father died an incumbent of the same office, which is now made vacant by the son's death. Speculation is already on foot as to who will be the successor. Those best posted think that John Nelson, Esq., or Wm. F. Giles, Esq. will be first among the applicants. I doubt, however, if Mr. Nelson would accept; but I am confident no caseculd fill the position with

Our City Council assembled this afternoon in executive session, and appointed committees to superintend the reception of the President and his Cabinet, on Monday next, upon the occasion of their arrival here. They will remain during the day and night, and proceed en route for New York the following morning. The demonstration will be imposing and worthy the distinguished guests.

There was a sad disappointment to-day at the non-hanging of Thomas Connor. Many who are fond of such sights gathered in from the country, and finding the thing did not come off, were actually quite put out. They did not relish having their tramp through the hot sun for nothing. How gross is this pitiable and ravenous taste

The new Democratic mode—it may truly be called Democratic-of nominating candidates by the general vote, seems to meet with much favor, and works admirably. It is death on the old system of packing, two-thirds ruling, bringing out any candidates for Judge and Clerk of the new Court. The nomination, therefore, of Mr. Krebs and Mr. Turner is equivalent to an election

There is a good deal of bitter feeling and opposition to the nomination of Mr. May for Congress; not so much on his own account, but because of (Mr. Brent) the company he keeps. This will be a heavy load for him to carry.

Permit me to give a passing r ...ce to our esteemed and worthy Postmaster, Col. Jacob G. Davies. Since he has entered upon duty, he has given complete satisfaction to all spirit in his whole demeanor, which captivates and never fails to please. Business at present is rather quiet. Many of our merchants have gone to the country. Breadstuffs are dull, and flour is not likely to go above $4,75, nor wheat above the present

The tobacco planters of the Eastern Shore have given orders to their agents here to hold their tobacco for higher prices, in consequence of the young crop, just planted, being very severely injured from drought. The money market is very easy, and money
